SMITH PLACES IN SPEECH COMPETITION

Tammy Smith (pictured above) of Spartanburg placed first in the South Carolina Speech Communication Association Festival held April 6 at Tri-County Technical College. She competed in preliminary rounds and final rounds before placing first in original oratory category. Tammy is a first year accounting student and has four children, all under the age of five.

CONGRATULATIONS TAMMY!

"THE MATCHMAKER" A BIG SUCCESS!

The Spartanburg Tech drama club, Caravanserai, presented Thornton Wilder’s "The Matchmaker" in the Tracy Gaines Learning Resource Center Auditorium.

The four-act comedy, used as a basis for the well-known movie production of "Hello Dolly", was the premiere play for the college’s newly formed drama club.

Ms. Judy Sieg, the founder and moderator of the club, was presented with a bouquet of flowers by the cast of the play for all of her hard work.

Quality Education for Quality Careers
Spartanburg Technical College honored eight area women during a special program celebrating the March national observance of Women's History Month on March 14. Keynote speaker Dr. Ellen Wood Hall, president of Converse College, encouraged women to believe in their dreams. According to Hall, women can achieve their greatest goals.

Women recognized for their outstanding contributions to the Spartanburg and surrounding communities were Lib Fleming, Karen Mitchell, Jan Scalisi, Doris Tidwell, Dateria Johnson, Nancy Basket, Willie Foster, and Ann Compton.

Fleming was honored for her contributions to the arts. Currently, she serves as president of the Cultural Center Foundation. She chaired the Cultural Center Steering Committee, an independent, non-partisan group which has spearheaded the cultural center project, in 1988 as well as the Advisory Council for the Arts Center from 1987-90. She helped form the Ballet Guild for the Civic Ballet and The Dance Center. She has served on the boards of the Red Cross and the Medical Auxiliary. She is a 1990 graduate of Leadership Spartanburg and currently serves on the organizations Alumni Association Board, Board of Regents and Program Committee for Arts and Recreation Day. She is a graduate of Converse College and is married to Dr. Harold Fleming, a cardiologist. They have four children.

Mitchell was honored in the area of politics. She serves as president of the Spartanburg Women's Political Caucus, and formerly served as the president for the League of Women Voters. She has been an active advocate for women's involvement in the political process, and worked as co-chair of field operations for Liz Patterson's campaign in 1988. She has managed and assisted with campaigns for Linda Bilanchone, Kathleen Kempe and Judy Bradley, as well as conducted workshops for women interested in holding a political office. She started the local Chapter of the National Women's Political Caucus in South Carolina in 1989, which is the only chapter of the organization in the state. She is a graduate of the University of Michigan and has a master's degree in early childhood education from the University of South Carolina, and a bachelor's degree from Winthrop College. Mitchell is also active in such organizations as the South Carolina Advisory Committee on Child Protection, Spartanburg Children's Shelter, Spartanburg Girl's Home, Spartanburg County Family Planning Advisory Council, Spartanburg County Board for Domestic Violence and the Safe Homes Network.

Basket was recognized in the area of business as the artist and proprietor of Kudzu Kabin Designs, where she has perfected a technique to turn Kudzu vine into paper artwork. In addition, the Yakima, Washington native has been a basketmaker for 10 years, continuing the art of her ancestors, the Cherokee Indians. She helped found the first basketry guild in the United States, and is a member of numerous basketry guilds. She holds artisan status with the International Guild of Miniature Artists, teaches basketmaking classes around the country, and is an approved artist through the South Carolina Arts Commission. She and her husband, Steve, have six children.

Foster was honored in the area of human services as a volunteer. The Union resident has been a volunteer for Another Way Children's Hope since its inception in 1976. Currently, she serves on the home's houseparent and client screening committees. Foster has served as a girl Scout troop leader for seven years. Last year, she began the Iris Club, a new cotillion club, which hosts etiquette classes and social and cultural activities for young women. She and her husband, Robert, have two children.

Ann Compton, a second year accounting student at Tech, was also honored. She is the recipient of the James P. Ledbetter, Jr. and the Educational Resources Foundation scholarships. She serves as accounting tutor at the college.

The 1991 women of achievement were selected by a 10 member committee at Spartanburg Tech.

THREE STUDENTS RECEIVE LEDBETTER SCHOLARSHIPS

Three Spartanburg Tech students receive $500 scholarships from the college's James P. Ledbetter, Jr. Scholarship Fund. This year's recipients were David Turner of Roebuck, Cynthia Ullery of Moore, and Cynthia McGuigan of Duncan.

Turner is an engineering graphics technology student and an electronics technician at Drews Distributing Inc. He maintains a perfect 4.0 grade point average.

Ullery is enrolled in the computer technology program and is employed at Alcoa-Fuji Kura. She has a grade point average of 3.89.

McGuigan is enrolled in the medical secretarial science curriculum, and maintains a perfect 4.0 grade point average. She is employed at creative Corner.

The scholarship fund was established in memory and honor of James P. Ledbetter, Jr., who served on the Spartanburg County Commission for Technical Education from 1968 to 1982. He served as the commission's chairman for 13 years.

Ledebetter scholarships are awarded annually to Tech students who must be enrolled full-time at least one quarter, must have a 3.0 or better grade point average, and must show leadership abilities and good character.
