

TLC Student OF THE MONTH

January 2016

Each month TLC selects a student who has benefitted from our services.

Our January student is

Sarah Thompson

Sometimes a problem evolves into an opportunity. That is what led TLC's Student of the Month, Sarah Thompson, to our campus. In the eleventh grade of high school, Sara was told that her language credits for graduation would not be counted in the same way and that she needed another language. At that time, the only language that Sara could take to fulfill that requirement (because of transferring from another location) was American Sign Language. This event brought her to SCC as a high school student, and today she remains as one of our star students.

Sara is a diligent student who started visiting the TLC frequently after coming to an orientation with her English class. Sara had the following to say about the TLC, "The tutors are pretty fantastic. I would say that for me using the services of the TLC made the difference between failing physics and getting an A."

We think Sara is pretty fantastic herself, and we predict a bright future ahead for her.
