

The Learning Center

February's Student of the Month

When a student returns to school after many years in the workforce, usually calculus and physics are scary scenarios, but Samuel Collins, our TLC Student of the Month, is facing the challenge with hard work. Samuel came to SCC to train for a better position in his company and be a role model for his children while still working full-time. After being told about the TLC on the first day of class, he has consistently sought tutoring three times a week. Electronic engineering is his field of study, and Samuel attests deciding to come to SCC as “one of the best decisions I have made.” We salute Samuel and those like him who are furthering their education by chasing new knowledge.

2017 Samuel Collins